1. Christ lived as a man until his baptism at which time the Father “adopted” him as his Son and conferred on him supernatural powers. (Note: Adoptionism is typically discussed with the doctrine of the Trinity.) 2. Rejected at the First Council of Constantinople in 381 because even though Jesus had supernatural powers, he was not eternal,

The theology of the Seventh-day Adventist Church resembles that of Protestant Christianity, combining elements from Lutheran, Wesleyan-Arminian, and Anabaptist branches of Protestantism. Adventists believe in the infallibility of Scripture and teach that salvation comes from grace through faith in Jesus Christ. The 28 fundamental beliefs constitute the church's official doctrinal position.

This is a welcome addition to the study of christology and one that will aid in our understanding of and love for the man Christ Jesus -Daniel L. Akin, President, Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary In far too many instances, the church is functionally docetic, basically affirming that the divine Christ only seemed to be human. But as Bruce Ware skillfully and passionately explains, the gospel and its implications depend upon the full deity and true humanity of Jesus Christ.

This doctrine is important because without the affirmation of the humanity of Jesus, we would have no hope of a Messiah. While Jesus was also fully God, he was fully man. As a man Jesus was empowered by the Spirit, growing in his faith, and perfectly resisting temptation where Adam did not do in the Garden of Eden.
